

Published based on Windows 7 and the Essential Features that were removed

Windows 7 and the Essential Features that were removed

In the world of software development, removing some of the features and incorporating newer ones is an acceptable thing. In fact, Microsoft has been very vocal in practicing this kind of an activity.

With current release of OS within the industry (the Windows 7), there has been lots of extra characteristics on it but there had been rather a handful of which had been also removed from the original version. Windows 7 upon its release has created a list from the characteristics that had been "tragically" removed.

Now, when users check on the most recent characteristics that are on the Windows 7 version they will no longer be seeing these characteristics:

a. The Classic Start Menu which has been migrated as much as Vista has now reached its sunset. With Windows 7, the Classic menu is no longer component of its development.

b. The removal from the Photo Gallery, Movie Maker, Calendar, as well as the Mail. These four crucial components that have been considerably contributory within the achievement of lots of Windows OS have now reached their end. With Windows 7, these are no longer component of it and have been replaced by a good deal newer and exciting feature.

c. The Windows 7 no longer has the software program explorer from the Windows Defender - a protection software program that has created the earlier version a good deal well-loved.

d. Windows 7 no longer has the Meeting Space feature. Microsoft believes that this add-on feature did not develop considerably impact to users. These characteristics that had been removed within the Windows 7 have been replaced by considerably greater and more exciting ones as affirmed by Microsoft officials.

Many expectants from the Windows 7 beta version have been left anxiously waiting for the beta to become released and ready for download. Microsoft officials are nevertheless uncertain about the final release date of its most up-to-date and soon to conquer OS - Windows 7 - within the industry.

Many of its followers are eager about tasting what it may offer you that all they are able to do would be to wait for the beta version's release within the industry. Last December, the lengthy wait has finally ended. The beta version has been completely released within the industry and lots of people that anxiously waited for this beta version release crammed on the internet to check on the Microsoft web site.

As component from the good program, Microsoft developed lots of download sites that individuals can use to try and download the beta version of Windows 7. Apparently, all these sites are obviously, Microsoft driven that gives its users a sense of security once they download it from their website.

The beta version has confirmed to become each a pain and glory to Microsoft individuals. It has been a good deal of pain simply because large component from the users has experienced unexpected bugs on the beta version that created the support team a good deal anxious about completing the full version.

It has been a good deal of glory simply because Microsoft has witnessed the large volume of people that have supported and downloaded the beta version. For Microsoft, this is a clear manifestation of a terrific and large achievement when Windows 7 finally hits the industry.

You can also find this article published on Windows 7 and the Essential Features that were removed, and on the tag pages component, deal, feature c, feature microsoft, microsoft officials, Windows.